What is a rare token?

When I first got into the hobby of collecting trade tokens, I thought "one of a kind" was as rare as they got. - What do you think? And how much does rarity really count anyway?

In my collection I have a number of "one of a kind" tokens - no one else has them. Yet the token that would sell the quickest is the Holden Co-op token good for 5¢. As far as I know there are four tokens from the Holden Co-op and they are the only tokens from the town of Holden, Utah. Three of these tokens are good for 5¢. Not a truly rare token, right; yet all tokens from Holden, Utah have permanent homes.

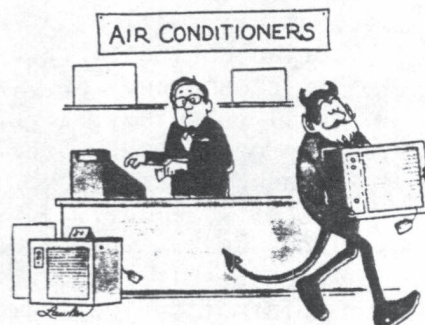

Let me give you another example. At last month's "dig", three tokens were found from Frisco, Utah. There has got to be at least 15 tokens now from Frisco. Not a rare token right? Three more were found. That had to bring the price of Frisco tokens down; yet none of the tokens that were found are for sale. I do not know of any Frisco tokens for sale. One collector waited about a year for a Frisco token to come up for sale. Try to buy a token from Frisco, you will find a lot more stories than anything else. And unless you have a lot more money than common sense, you will find that all tokens from Frisco, Utah already have a home. Frisco tokens still bring a good price - somewhere between $200 and $500.

I guess the point is; rarity does not always count for a lot. Just because a token is "one of a kind" doesn't mean it will bring big dollars. The interest has to be there. Maybe someday a number of collectors will specialize in Salt Lake tokens and the prices will climb higher than in other smaller cities. If this happens it will be because the interest is there.

One last example. Three or four collectors have specialized in the Tintic mining district area and have caused the prices of even Eureka tokens to be quite expensive. Interest in the area has caused any token from the area rarer than five known to be almost impossible to obtain. They all have homes and are not available, usually not at any price. I guess that is because no one knows how much they may be worth in the future, or once they are sold they cannot be replaced - not at any price.

How much are they worth? Well I would sure like to buy them at their melt value.

COIN - SHOW - NEWS

By George Wilson

It is almost down to the wire again.

Our 3rd Annual Coin & Token Show is only a few days away. Each year our show becomes a little better known, more people attend and it is even more of an event for our members, and this year should be no exception.

We have increased our National Publicity listings by one third and 2,000 flyers have been distributed locally. Over 125 publicity releases have been sent to newspapers, radio and television stations around the intermountain area.

Attendance should exceed last years and table sales will put our society in the black for another year.

I hope that you have not forgotten that our June meeting will be held at the Salt Lake Howard Johnson's Hotel. The address is 122 W. South Temple. The meeting will start with the table set up downstairs in the bourse area at about 6:30 PM. After the set up is finished we will go upstairs to the Lisa room for refreshments and a program.

Two things you need to remember are the meeting will be held on the 26th of June and don't forget to tell the parking attendant that you are here to help with the Coin Show. Otherwise you will be charged for parking.

It is still not too late to sign up for the hospitality table. If you missed the sign up sheet, call me or Robin Sidwell. We still have a small number of flyers left so if you haven't covered all the places around your neighborhood pick some up.

Also, it is still not too late to enter an exhibit. All that you have to do is get in touch with John Sroka, who is this year's Exhibit Chairman. And the meeting on the 26th will be your last opportunity to purchase this year's medal at the pre-show price of $3.60. After the 26th the price will go up to $4.50 each.

I am looking forward to seeing you at the next meeting and at the next show. I think it is going to be the best one yet.

RAFFLE!

Below is a list of items that will either be raffled or given away at the next meeting

1. H&M Store #13 good for $1.00 in trade

GLEN'S CORNER

FRISCO FUN

By Glen Sidwell

About all I can say to everyone who missed our Frisco, Utah dig is that you missed out on good times and good finds. Not one person on this dig came home without some type of a good find or good memory. Everything from brass goodies, marbles, bottles, coins, and tokens were found.

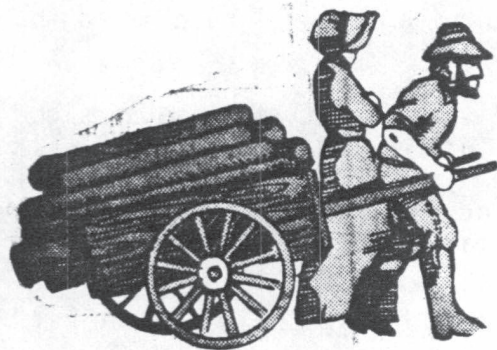

Although the town of Frisco itself has been gone over a million times, several finds were made in that area including several bottles that were dug by Steve Franke. George Wilson located a Chinese coin in the old business section. I located another Chinese coin not far from this spot. I also located a 1901 - O Barber Dime in nice condition on the east side of town near the campsite. A friend of John Nutting also got a V Nickle in this same area.

Several members also drove south to Shauntie one afternoon and made a few nice finds on a steep hill where miners had thrown their trash. This included a gold watch by Harold Franke, a large marble by George Wilson, A sterling silver spoon and thimble by Bill Turpela, also several childrens rusted toys were located here.

Over in Carbonite is where many of us made some excellent finds including an 1857 quarter found by Harold Franke. I found an Osborne and Osborne Frisco, Utah token, good for one drink or cigar and a Liquor House Distiller from Milford, Utah good for 5¢ in trade. But, I do not think I have seen anybody quite as proud of themselves as Bryan Moulton was when he found his Frisco token.

After acquiring some USGS Maps and skillful driving on rocky roads, Harold Franke found a spot that was virtually untouched by relic hunters. Here he and Steve located a Duffy Malt bottle, a Barber quarter, a Barber dime, a Liberty Head nickle, and a token anybody in this club would like to have. He found The Brick Saloon token from Frisco, Utah, good for 12½¢ at the bar. Harold is lucky he did not get ambushed later that night.

All in all this was a great dig and everyone had a real good time. We hope to see some more good turnouts at the next digs.

CONGRATULATIONS GREG!

By Bob Campbell

A good friend of Numismatics here in Utah passed away a couple of weeks ago. Dr. James Hansen (whom many of us knew as Jim in the club) was kind of a closet collector in a sense, because he did not openly flaunt his knowledge or expertise in several areas of U.S. and World coins. The fantastic collections that he acquired over the years were (as far as Utah collections) second to none. He was a "true blue" collector because he took in all the factors when he purchased coins. For example; condition, rarity, color, etc. He always had something positive to say about every kind of collector and was always willing to listen to some new information or knowledge from that person. He had many collections; crown size coins of the world, Great Britain, U.S. Silver dollars, half dollars, and quarters. Franklin halves were a specialty of his, because he thought they were a true sleeper in high grades and also because twenty years or so they will be like BU Walking Liberty halves are now. In the past few years he started to collect Utah Trade Tokens and often said the stimulating feelings of competitiveness were greater in tokens than anything he had yet experienced and he enjoyed it immensely. He had acquired one of the finest Utah Trade Token collections known in just a few years of searching. He and his wife, Pat, always supported the local and national clubs by attending, exhibiting and lecturing at the trade shows and club meetings.

His loss will be felt by many of us, not just as a trusted friend, but as a giant of a numismatist. We wish he could have been with us longer to share his insight of collecting exnumia.

Our sincere condolence go out to Pat and his family.
